PRODUCT ENDORSEMENT APPLICATION

To begin the certification process, a non-refundable $275 deposit is required to accompany this certification application. The I.I.A.Q.C. will review the submittal package and quantity of work required by I.I.A.Q.C. personnel as well as outside analytical or investigatory work needed (if any) and will submit the final certification cost to the submitting company before such work is conducted.

It is understood that the I.I.A.Q.C. will evaluate all documentation provided as well as additional information available on relevant subject matter to ascertain the appropriateness of product claims. If additional independent testing is required, the I.I.A.Q.C. will notify the submitting company for approval before continuation of the certification process.

Payment of fees in no way indicates approval, endorsement, or certification by the I.I.A.Q.C. Endorsement fees support the work necessary for the certification process. Failure by the submitting company to provide adequate documentation to support product claims, discovery of substantial contradicting scientific evidence, or outside testing failure could result in non-endorsement by the I.I.A.Q.C.

Signature by the submitting company officer below verifies that all documentation to support product claims is scientifically accurate and indicative of product performance.

In addition, signature by the submitting company officer below indicates acceptance of these terms and conditions.
